

Heart Attack Warning Signs

Recognize symptoms and act quickly.

Common warning signs

- Pressure, tightness, heaviness or pain in the chest.
- Pain or discomfort spreading to an arm, shoulder, jaw, back or upper abdomen.
- Shortness of breath, sweating, nausea, dizziness or unusual weakness.
- Symptoms can be less typical in some people, including marked fatigue or breathlessness.

What to do

- Treat possible heart-attack symptoms as an emergency.
- Call emergency services rather than driving yourself.
- Do not delay because symptoms are mild, intermittent or uncertain.

Why every minute matters

- A blocked coronary artery can injure heart muscle.
- Rapid ECG testing, blood tests and restoration of blood flow can reduce damage.
